From raw explanations to traceable research findings

Human interpretation is a recorded research step. Rule matches propose labels; they do not establish requirement defects.